Agenda

01

NOI Increased but Move-In Rent Remains Below-Market

02

Occupancy Is Robust from Tenant Retainment and Non-Same-Store Lease Up

03

Development and Expanded Facilities Increase in Constrained Supply Market

04

Capital Liquidity Remains Strong

NOI Increased But Move-In Rent Remains Below-Market

- NOI increased by 4.8% QoQ mainly because same-store move-in rent increased by 7.9%.
- Despite improvements in NOI, move-in rents are still below-market to remain affordability for customers.

(2) Public Storage Inc., June 30, Q2 2024 Earnings Call, accessed September 2024.

Occupancy Is Robust from Tenant Retainment and Non-Same-Store Lease Up

Same-Store Facilities Occupancy %

- Occupancy increased by 0.9% with strong performance among same-store and non-same-store
- Same-store facilities retain high-quality, loyal tenants suggesting good in-house service.
- Non-same-store facilities leased up quickly from below-market rents and higher expenses allocated for marketing

(2) Public Storage Inc., June 30, Q2 2024 Earnings Call, accessed September 2024.

Development and Expanded Facilities Increased in Constrained Supply Market

Developed & Expanded Facilities

- NOI increased by $3.2M and capital spent increased by $85M on development and expanded facilities this quarter.
- Injected new supply in California, Texas, and Maryland.
- Optimistic about future demand growth by taking advantage of challenging construction market.

Capital Liquidity Remains Strong

Repurchased back
Common Shares

$200M

Net Debt and Preferred to EBITDA

3.9X

Refinanced April

(2) Public Storage Inc., June 30, Q2 2024 Earnings Call, accessed September 2024.

Conclusion

- PSA remains in soft market conditions but are making strategic developments with robust liquidity in preparation for future demand.
- Year-over-year performance improvement is anticipated, despite predicted seasonal declines in the rest of 2024.
- PSA leverages its position as a major industry player to eliminate competition when market conditions improve.
